- (4) It is desirable that the title of a book submitted to the Committee for consideration should be printed at the top of each leaf of the book.
 - (5) Books submitted to the Secretary should always be in print.

Syllabuses-Language and Literature

Class I (Age Group 6+)

The chief objective in language training at this stage should be stimulation and development of free self-expression in children. Children should be encouraged to speak freely, describe their experiences, tell stories, recite hymns, simple songs, national anthems, poems and nursery rhymes.

Oral Self-expression.—(a) Capacity to speak clearly, fully and with ease about their life in school, home and village or town, special attention should be given to correct pronunciation.

- (b) Increasing vocabulary about life in school, home and village.
- (c) Stories from both teacher and children.
- (d) Mythology, folk tales, fairy tales, nature stories of all kinds, funny stories and nonsense stories of children in other lands.
 - (e) Poems, simple and of good literary standard.
 - (f) Dramatisation of stories, folk tales, etc.

Total vocabulary at the end of this class, approximately 450 words.

- (g) Writing of bigger sentences to be chosen according to child's interests.
- (h) Acquaintance with words and letters will be through the playway method and may be on the basis of likeness as between different letters, e.g., etc., as also on the basis of children's interests.
 - (i) Conjoint letters should be avoided as far as possible.

Class II (Age Group 7+)

1. Oral self-expression should be further developed. Children should be able to describe more fully and with ease and clarify objects, people and happenings within their experience in school, home and village or town.

Besides oral self-expression, poems, stories, dramatisation and recitation should be prominent features.

Extension of Vocabulary.—Children's vocabulary in relation to their life in the school, home and village should be further developed this year (approximately 350 new words).

2. Reading and reproduction of an elementary character of short tales, and stories of men and animals, fairy tales, short but interesting sketches and descriptions of natural phenomena. Easy poems suitable for the age group from writings of standard authors. They should be able to read simple story books which should be properly illustrated.

The office of the Secretary, West Bengal Text Book Committee, does not hold itself responsible for answering letters regarding books under consideration of the Committee. Names of books approved will be duly notified.

English Syllabus.

Class V.

Speech-Training and Reading.—Training in the sounds of spoken English; pronunciation of easy words; spelling of easy words to be taught with the help of the black-board and orally.

Writing.—Copy books in "Script print" are to be used. The black-board should be freely used, the words written on the black-board being from the Primer. Only teachers writing a good hand should teach hand-writing in the lower forms.

Primer.—A simple illustrated Primer of about 80 pages in bold Roman type of 14 point size should be introduced from the beginning. The lesson should be of graduated difficulty and generally about everyday life of the child and his environment. Suitable poems and nursery rhymes should be included and pupils should learn a certain number of poems by heart. The Primer should be illustrated to help in the better understanding of the text. Meaning of words, etc., should not be given in the vernacular.

Composition.—Easy conversation about description of pictures in the Primer as well as other suitable pictures and familiar objects. Dictation of words and sentences previously learnt in the Primer should be introduced freely. Oral drill with action both for individual pupils and groups should form part of the training. Pupils also should participate in giving orders, asking questions, etc.

N.B.—The Primer should be written in controlled vocabulary and should not exceed 450 basic words. (Thorndike's Teachers' Word Book or any other well-workedout system may be followed keeping in mind that the lessons should be easily understood by the learners of age group 10.)

Syllabus in Bengali for non-Bengali students.

Class V.

Speech-Training and Reading.—Training in the sounds of spoken Bengali; pronunciation of easy words; spelling of easy words to be taught with the help of the black-board and orally.

Writing.—Copy books are to be used. The black-board should be freely used, the words written on the black-board being from the Primer.

Primer.—A simple illustrated Primer of about 64 pages should be introduced from the beginning, the type being bold, distinct and most in vogue. The lesson should be of graduated difficulty and generally about everyday life of the child and his environment. Suitable poems, easy and rhythmic, should be included, and pupils should learn a certain number of poems by heart. The poems should not exceed one-fourth of the text. The Primer should be illustrated to help in the better understanding of the text. The meanings of difficult words and phrases may be appended to each lesson.

Composition.—Easy conversation about description of pictures in the Primer as well as other suitable pictures and familiar objects. Dictation of words and sentences previously learnt in the Primer should be introduced treely. Oral drill with action both for individual pupils and groups should form part of the training. Pupils also should participate in giving orders, asking questions, etc.

Class V.

Speech-Training and Reading.—Training in the sounds of spoken Hindi; pronunciation of easy words; spelling of easy words—to be taught with the help of the black-board and orally.

Writing.—Copy books are to be used. The black-board should be freely used, the words written on the black-board being from the Primer.

Primer.—A simple illustrated Primer of about 64 pages should be introduced from the beginning, the type being bold, distinct and most in vogue. The lesson should be of graduated difficulty and generally about everyday life of the child and his environment. Suitable poems, easy and rhythmic, should be included, and pupils should recite and learn a certain number of poems by heart. The poems should not exceed one fourth of the text. The Primer should be illustrated to help in the better understanding of the text. The meanings of difficult words and phrases may be appended to each lesson.

Easy conversation about description of pictures in the Primer as well as other suitable pictures and familiar objects. Dictation of words and sentences previously learnt in the Primer should be introduced freely. Oral drill with action both for individual pupils and groups should form part of the training. Pupils also should participate in giving orders, asking questions, etc.
